Dear Hiring Manager,

I am a recent graduate from Miami Ad School, and I am excited that you found my portfolio and that you are reading this letter to you. I am not going to list my credentials or tell you why I am the best fit for your agency. I will do that when I write a personal email to you for a position of a junior art director.

But I must warn you – I come as a package. With me comes the vision of creating exciting visuals as a newbie art director/illustrator, the word-spinning skills of a copywriter, and the unadulterated enthusiasm of a person entering advertising. Hope it won't be a lot to handle!

Thank you for your time and hope you have a great day ahead.

Sincerely,
Shrilakhshmi (aka Shri)
